

After weeks of bad weather that has been unsuitable for flying or training we have had some successes this week.

On new years day Lee managed a day training at Westbury with the tandem. He was joined by Nik and some of our flying colleagues from TVHGC and AVON clubs.

A few days later Nik and John managed to fly on Tan Hill after finding a small weather window and braving the freezing cold conditions. Well done!

On the 4th of January, we had a Cloudbase day on Milk Hill with John and Nik joining Chris and Lee for several hours of flying on Milk Hill. The weather was not suitable for students but allowed Lee to train Chris on the tandem. The conditions were so cold that Nik had to land several times to recover from frost bite. A big well done goes to John for achieving another personal best and longest single flight yet.

We hope for more flying before the week is out.
